THE BANKING DEPARTMENT.

A Fake Scheme Costing the Taxpayers About a Quarter of a Million Every Time the Legislature Meets—Examiners That Never Examine—The Federal Government Does For Nothing What the State Government Robs Us for Not Doing At All.

Six thousand six hundred pages of [illegible] dollars, [illegible] other volume to come before the expiration of the current year, represents the work of the bank department of Pennsylvania from the date of its organization in 1891 up to the present time. That it has been of any use to [illegible] those employed in the business, will all the trying, boring and binding the [illegible] huge volumes, and the commissioner, clerks and examiners, who [illegible] no real [illegible] tain.

Prior to 1891 bank statistics were compiled [illegible] the Secretary of Internal Affairs, [illegible] official and his [illegible] assistants. As to the efficacy and adequacy of this old time method, Mr. Charles H. Krumbharr, who was the first chief of the new department, in his report for 1892 says: "They (the auditor general and his assistants) were always ready to act in cases of trouble arising in an institution, and have rendered service in discounting the business of weak institutions which were endangering the community." If the new and costly department has done even as much as this in the cause of honest banking and the safeguarding of depositors, the fact is not apparent, but seems to be [illegible] bank failures in [illegible] The department was created by an act of June 8, 1891. That act provided for a superintendent, to be appointed by the governor, at a salary of $3,000 for four years, at a salary of $3,000 a year, and for three clerks, at $1,200 annual salary, [illegible] sum of $1,000. In 1893 it was [illegible] and in 1894 $18,183.16. But during all these years the department was self supporting, the expenses of examination paid by the banks, amounting to more than the expenditure for salaries, etc. [illegible] been created and in [illegible] permission of "banks and banking companies, co-operative banking associations, [illegible] real estate, mortgage, [illegible] surety and indemnity companies, and all other companies of a similar character, savings institutions, savings banks, provident institutions and every [illegible] having power and receiving money on deposit, and mutual savings funds, building and loan associations." By this act the salary of the superintendent was fixed at $6,000 per annum, [illegible] in [illegible] per year. Also, from time to time, to present expenses "in such [illegible] shall be necessary for the [illegible] of the business of the department, not to exceed [illegible] in number," at a compensation of not more than [illegible]

In the same year (1895) the general appropriation act was made to give [illegible] two years), which three years before had cost The state the modest sum of $1,000, the following amounts:

Salary of chief (two years...	$12,000
Salary of clerks (two years)....	8,400
Salary of examiners (two years).	50,000
Salary of stenographer and typewriter (two years)...	[illegible]
Salary of messenger (two years)	[illegible]
Contingent expenses	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

[illegible] Mr. F. [illegible] chief of the Department of Banking, state comptroller, in that position he had charge of the [illegible] and Mr. [illegible] given the [illegible] Assemblymen, on the fifth day of [illegible] was as yet but a few days more than a month old, the necessary act, having been rushed through both houses, was signed by Governor Hastings, who thus fulfill the decree of the machine, and Gilkeson became the commissioner.

In 1897 the appropriation to the banking department was again fixed at $124,500, and the commissioner and his deputy and his three clerks and his ten examiners continue to luxuriate on the fat of the land, while the banks go on collapsing in greater number and with greater loss to the taxpayers than ever before.

Speaking of the examiners, it is a somewhat remarkable fact that, as shown by the state treasurer's reports, the monthly payments to them always amount to just as many hundreds of dollars as there are regular days in the month. Ten examiners at $10 per day make exactly $100 a day. And yet there are no examinations required by law and none are ever made. The places of these men are absolutely sinecures. They are nothing more than barnacles on the good ship of state, living [illegible] their dead weight to sink it in the sea.

In addition to being a gross fraud upon the taxpayers, the banking department exists in violation of the express mandate of the constitution, which requires that all such matters as come under its supervision shall be subject to direction by the secretary of internal affairs. [illegible] to have a banking department created as a distinct, separate and distinct by itself, with bankers themselves should have some right in controlling the law, or at least in [illegible] money with which to pay [illegible] a project would infract the fundamental law, though how that instrument can be construed to create a separate bank department and deny a separate mine department, [illegible] a consulting attorney, in the pay of the [illegible]

The 1896 report of the commissioner of banking, which is the last [illegible] volume we have from his hand, shows that 194 institutions, banks, savings banks and trust companies made report to him. In the state of Pennsylvania there are 650 national banks. The national banks are a great power, with apparently unlimited means. And yet [illegible] proper economy, though each bank is required by law to be actually examined at least twice in each year, to do this work without any expense to the government, the regulations exacting from the banks a sum that in the total balanced the cost of the department. Another somewhat significant fact is that only five examiners were required to look after the 650 national banks, while Mr. Gilkeson has ten $10-a-day assistants making believe to watch and correct such fraudulent and dangerous practices as the 194 state banks, savings banks and trust companies may venture.

While on this branch of this most interesting subject let us again go back to Mr. Krumbharr, who was [illegible] the department under Governor Pattison, and who knows to have acquitted portion of the same to acquaint the public with the condition of our [illegible] those responsible for the management, experience has shown that no department can be safely run by depending upon reports. Many matters of management and objectionable practices may be readily omitted therefrom, which would be most apparent upon a personal visit of an efficient and trustworthy examiner." This was six years ago, and yet to-day the banking department [illegible] no examinations until after the newspapers have told that the banks are failures, and the time for examination has gone by, and Mr. Gilkeson and his fourteen assistants pocket an eighth of a million dollars annually for work that is purely [illegible] and of no more use to the [illegible] than nothing at all. In addition to all this there are the strongest reasons for believing that, in conjunction with the management of the [illegible] the banking department winks at practices by [illegible] that are depositories of the state's moneys that, being notified to the people, are [illegible] a very proper distrust. Mr. Wanamaker referred to this phase of this matter in sundry of his speeches. A machine banking department is a rational [illegible] to the political banks that do business on the state's moneys, contribute a large share of the funds that help keep the machine in power, and, like the late Mr. Kemble's institution in Philadelphia, go down in their turn to a chorus of depositors' tears, scornful execration and notorious suicides.

QUAYISM IN FIGURES.

How Four Years of Machine Rule Converted a Real Surplus of Nearly Four Millions Into a Real Deficiency of [illegible] Millions—Facts From the Records That Support Mr. Jenks' Charge That the State Treasury [illegible]

Mr. Jenks has charged, upon the stump, that the state treasury is bankrupt and the astounding fact has not been and cannot be denied. Here are the figures, from the official records of the machine state treasurers, that prove it:

GENERAL FUND RECEIPTS.

1896	12,265,756
1897	12,475,670
1898	[illegible]
Total	$47,678,865

GENERAL FUND PAYMENT.

1895	[illegible]
1896	[illegible]
1897	12,768,815
Total	$54,219,446

[illegible] culates the probable receipts, and he puts down the actual obligations. By the end of the year, therefore, if all the obligations are in the meanwhile met, the state will have expended, during the four years of Governor Hastings' administration, $6,570,581 more than its [illegible]

But there was a real balance left over from Governor Pattison's last year. Auditor General Gregg (Republican) spoke of that balance in his annual report for that year as follows: After noting that the nominal balance was $5,014,942, he said: "Of the amount paid into the state treasury (as personal property tax) there remains to be written off, by giving up the cost of contested elections, etc., which should properly be deducted from the reported balance, in order to ascertain the [illegible] would show a real balance of $3,807,747.62.

"While we may point with pride to the existence of this large balance, it will prove an unmixed blessing. Its very existence will invite applications for its appropriation to purposes neither necessary nor deserving. The revenues of the state are at present ample to meet its expenses if economically applied."

And then this Republican auditor went on to recommend the [illegible] of the surplus to some purpose [illegible] by the entire [illegible] given the commonwealth an annual charge therefor."

"Inheriting this 'real surplus' of $3,807,747 from its predecessor, and expending in four years $6,570,581 in excess of its income, the Hastings administration has exhausted the surplus. With "money to burn," so to speak, four years ago, the treasury now has, if its debts were paid, nearly $3,000,000 less than nothing.

WHAT IT COSTS

To Run the State Department Under Quayism as Compared With the Cost Under Democratic Management.

Here are some figures showing the cost of certain branches of the state government under the appropriation acts of 1896 and 1897 respectively, the former having been the largest approach to a Democratic year the state has had since the war.

Executive offices	$517,965	$1,015,971
Legislative expense	511,111	724,823
Judicial expense	997,000	1,342,642
Printing and binding	605,993	1,120,984

These figures need little explanation. They show that in fourteen years, under the wise direction of Republican [illegible] as aries increased, new and useless deputies and clerks employed and contingent funds padded, until from a half a million, our executive expenses have exceeded by a million and a half for each two years.

[illegible] of senators and members and the allowances for mileage, stationery and postage are the same as in 1883, by increasing the already large enough force of clerks and other employes, by adding enormously to contingent expenses to fee party favorites, by awarding pay for regular committee services, by creating white-washing and fraudulent investigating committees (whose perquisites were not [illegible] by piling up the cost of contested elections, etc., they have saddled the charge upon the [illegible] a legislative session [illegible] the expenditure for printing and binding [illegible] than useless state publications have [illegible] most doubled since 1883, although the actual cost of doing that kind of work has been very materially reduced in the interval.

[illegible] show that even the bench had been made to contribute to the impoverishment of the state, by multiplying the number of judges beyond all reason and then making statutes that [illegible] to their legal salaries by holding court in other districts in years when, in order to keep up with the trial lists, they must have other judges come and hold court in their own districts.

They show, in brief, that under Republican rule, the system is rotten from core to rind, and that there is but one chance for real reform, which lies in electing a Democratic executive administration and a Democratic legislature.

A general order was issued by General Miles Friday reorganizing the army. The Third, Fifth and Sixth corps are discontinued. The First, Second and Fourth corps are remodeled and [illegible] reassigned [illegible]

THE JUNKER BUSINESS.

How It Has Grown to Its Present Awful Proportions—Democratic and Republican Rule Compared.

In connection with state politics in Pennsylvania there are few things more interesting or instructive and absolutely nothing more fully demonstrable of the curse of the machine rule than a study and comparison of the various general appropriation acts of the state legislature. Mr. Wanamaker has [illegible] Democratic party, its conventions [illegible] and press, in explaining to the people that these acts cover many [illegible] steals. There are not many of the features of them more prolific and astounding in this range of development [illegible] legislative junkets, "extra services" of legislative committees, and the multitudinous commissions that are [illegible] for the sole purpose of putting unearned money into the pockets of the henchmen and retainers of the dominant party throughout the state.

A carefully compiled table, made up from an item-by-item search of the general appropriation acts for the past 15 [illegible] of Governor Pattison's first administration, there was a total of $2,630,969 awarded for these purposes. These included the expenses of investigations, the State offices, insane asylum and penitentiary, and the [illegible] units of that expensive appendage to [illegible] senate, which had no library.

[illegible] the Bliss-Wagner contested election case [illegible] to report a comprehensive system of [illegible] for the several depart[illegible] the year 1895 there were [illegible] $8,000, which an item of $1,000 for the expenses of the commission to investigate the Standard Oil [illegible] was taken from the [illegible] appropriation act, as finally [illegible] However, in general Republican [illegible] these appropriations show an increase of several hundred per cent. As illustrating the carelessness and fraudulent methods that had already begun to prevail, $6,000 of this amount was voted in a lump sum for four investigations: an investigation at Gettysburg and a member's funeral.

It was not until 1897 [illegible] there was anything like a really riotous revel along these lines. Beaver was still governor, and the aggregated items in the general appropriation bill for [illegible] had the enormous sum of $1,[illegible]. These included $17,000 for a house [illegible] and $[illegible] for a senatorial [illegible] entirely unprecedented figures, $[illegible] for a committee to examine and [illegible] upon the charitable and correctional systems of the commonwealth, $6,000 for a commission to codify the [illegible] mittee on industrial education and $10,000 laid out in taking the centennial inauguration of George Washington as President. And Beaver never interposed a veto. A unique item in this bill is $[illegible] for a committee on annual [illegible] There was [illegible]

"I have been a Republican since 1860, but our party now stinks in the nostrils of all decent men. If the people are willing to uphold this corruption and dishonesty, God save the country."—EX-POSTMASTER GENERAL JOHN WANAMAKER.

WARRANTS for the arrest of the managers of the Chicago-Virden Coal Company, who precipitated the bloody affair at [illegible] by bringing imported labor into the town, have been issued, charging them with murder, and the cases will doubtless be pressed to a conclusion.

EIGHT years ago many Republicans in Tioga county voted for Robert E. Pattison for Governor and they have never had cause to regret it. Now that Governor Pattison—[illegible]—taken the stump for Judge Jenks these Republicans should follow in their old-time convictions and vote for Jenks, who will be just as good a Governor as Pattison was. Stone is just as much the creature of Quay as Delamater was.

[illegible] are [illegible] to the comfort they get from Governor Hastings' speech. He [illegible] charge of that has been charged against the Quay machine, and alleges his administration does not share the responsibility. Admit that. It is not the Hastings administration that is on trial, but the Quay machine represented by Quay's selected candidate for Governor. On the Governor's speech on the known facts it is the duty of every citizen to vote for Jenks and against the machine.

THERE is six hundred million dollars of corporate property in the State of Pennsylvania that does not pay a cent in taxes either to the county or the Commonwealth. When corporate property is [illegible] mills to the dollar, while the farmer and business man is taxed all the way from [illegible] Is the dollar of the corporations more sacred than the dollar of the common individual? If the farmer and business man thinks his dollar is more sacred than his ballot he will keep right on voting for the Republican boss machine. Otherwise, vote for Jenks.

THE steamship Michigan, which left London for New York last Thursday with many passengers and a crew of [illegible] day of the Lizard between the Manacles and Lowlands. One hundred and [illegible] lives were lost, according to latest accounts. The disaster was one of the most terrible in many years. The loss of life was great, but what made the [illegible] was the fact that the passengers and crew were drowned within sight of the life boats and tugs which sought in vain to get through the swirling waters to the rescue of those on board the vessel.

THE speeches made by President McKinley on his western trip were not impromptu by any means," writes our Washington correspondent. "On the contrary, they were carefully prepared before he left Washington, as a result of dinners and conferences with Boss Hanna and other party leaders and, while apparently to partisans, were intended to rattle the Democratic congressional campaigns by harping on the necessity of the country presenting a united front and claiming for the administration made the treaty. Time has been signed. It was a shrewd political design, as it is certain that the treaty of peace will not be made public until after the congressional elections, and so will it be concealed.

[illegible] W. Scott, in the course of his address at Scranton last Friday, said that a very clever form of [illegible] was employed in the campaign were National [illegible] the support of the President. [illegible] are successful in the November elections he will have to modify his plans for the settlement of the territorial question with Spain. Spain, Colonel Stone declared, is only awaiting news of Democratic victories to make a proposition from the peace commission, on the argument that the people of this country are not in sympathy with the President. Such rot as this indicates hopelessness. The appointed campaigners are prepared to cover all treason in his speeches with the exception of the State of Pennsylvania.

CIRCUMSTANCES alter cases in politics [illegible] ago the Republicans were pointing to the odds offered on "Teddy" Roosevelt by betting men, as indicating what a cinch he had on the governorship of New York. Now, when odds are no longer to be had and thousands of dollars offered to bet remain uncovered, those same Republicans are saying, "the betting really has nothing to do with the campaign." As a matter of fact, the change in the betting has been brought about by the change in the situation. When Roosevelt was nominated the betting men [illegible] the campaign on the hurrah, and that the voters of the State would follow suit, but they have found that he was a brave soldier in the [illegible] discovered the slump in the hurrah, and now they want to wager that [illegible] things have broken up. Roosevelt is not the idol of which he was thought to be, [illegible] prominent of whom—Oswald Ottendorfer, editor of the Staats Zeitung—calls himself a Democrat.

THE SIZE OF THE FEE.

As stated in the last issue of the GAZETTE, ex-Congressman Sowden thinks that the Republican candidate for Governor, William A. Stone, charged the State too much for suing it from Maine. The amount he received was $10,000. Mr. Sowden suggests that the State could have saved money by paying the bill of the Allegheny county newspaper for advertising the appraiser's list to its German constituency.

Probably the general opinion will be that Mr. Sowden's idea that paying a newspaper $10,000 for advertising was a waste of money [illegible] are not disposed to deny this to be the fact. The question is fairly raised whether a lawyer who makes such a charge is sufficiently clear in his distinction between meum et tuum—mine and thine—to make an honest Governor.

[illegible] in the indictment against Stone, which contains other counts against him based upon his [illegible] the fellows who are being so loudly accused of being robbers of the State. [illegible] Stone in having the State as his client and his Pittsburg partisans as his friends, seems to have had a fine opportunity to have rewarded himself nicely, and to have embraced it.

Stone defends his fee upon the allegation that an important principle of law was decided in favor of the State, which might eventually save it from paying out a large sum of money, and that may be true. It is not always the size of the verdict that measures the value of the services. Still Mr. Stone will have difficulty in persuading the voters of the State that he earned $10,000 in establishing a principle of law in favor of the State, however much it may hereafter be to its advantage. If this is a fair [illegible] services, he ought to be satisfied with serving the people as Governor at $10,000 only for a solid year's service.

CANDIDATE STONE'S BIG FEE.

The Accusation, the Admission and All the Details by a Republican.

In the Philadelphia Press of April 19, 1898, was an address delivered by Major [illegible] was a schoolmate of Colonel W. A. Stone, the Republican candidate for Governor, in which he said:

"I have undertaken to state from the stump that Colonel William A. Stone, now of Allegheny, late of Tioga county, is the fortunate [illegible] that his candidacy was received upon a [illegible] during the whole of his political life, that he said to me [illegible] quently during the past eight years that his great ambition in politics was to be governor, but that he could not be a candidate for office until the 'Old Man' said so, but he would be when he did say so; that two years ago in the senatorial campaign, he made the declaration that his relations to Mr. Quay were such that his political fortunes would rise or fall with those of Mr. Quay. I asserted also that I did not deem him a safe man for governor to stem the tide of corrupt approach upon the state treasury, since in private life he had charged the state $10,000 for collecting $2,400.

[illegible] Stone has undertaken to deny the last statement. Addressing a meeting at Kittanning April 9, he said: "The state paid me $10,000 for my return of $2,400. I never made a charge against the state." By this statement [illegible] Colonel Stone to deny the [illegible] Stone's fee for a case which returned which will give a performance at the Auditorium on Saturday evening, is pronounced by the press the finest minstrel company traveling. It consists of two entirely new and distinct companies, numbering fifty people and embracing the world's greatest array of minstrel talent. The Jamestown Herald in speaking of the show says: "The entertainment given in the opera house last evening was a howling success from beginning to end. Washburn's Minstrels have won fame in Jamestown and those who had the pleasure of hearing them on Friday will not soon forget them. It would take two pages to tell the story of the good things they had to tell."

INSTITUTE LECTURE COURSE.—The Tioga County Teachers' Institute will be held at the Mansfield Auditorium during the week commencing Monday, October 31. County Superintendent Raesly has arranged a very interesting and attractive series of evening entertainments, and the institute generally promises to be one of the most successful ever held in the county. John Temple Graves will open the lecture course on Monday evening with his matchless oration, "The Reign of the Demagogue." Mr. Graves is one of the most brilliant and beautiful speakers before the public to-day. His lectures are expressions of marvelous eloquence are blended of fundamental truth. Col. L. F. Copeland, the veteran lecturer, says: "I have listened to nearly every great speaker of two continents, but never in my life have I heard a more eloquent address from the platform so thoroughly pungent in thought, so scholarly in diction, so elegant and classical in composition, so ..... as 'The Reign of Law.' Every living American should hear it. It is beyond all praise." Dr. Lyman Abbott, Henry Watterson says: "He is the most eloquent Southerner of to-day." Robert Irving Fulton says, "He surpasses Ingersoll in rhetoric and delivery." The Boston Globe says, "He is a born orator if ever one came into the world."

On Tuesday evening, November 1st, the teachers will be entertained by the Rogers-Grilley recitals, an entertainment which is pronounced far above the average of the combinations of this class. Mr. Rogers is a gifted and skilled baritone soloist, and has been associated with such artists as Mme. Modjeska, Campanini and others. Mr. Grilley is one of the most successful and popular entertainers in the profession, and his ability to deliver intensely dramatic as well as humorous selections and do them equally well is possessed by few. His selections are carefully chosen from the leading fields of literature and cover a wide range. During the past season he has entertained audiences in fifteen different States, and the press has been unanimous in its praise of the artistic excellence of his work. The Rogers-Grilley recitals are of a high order, and their programme embraces both classic and popular selections.

The Rosa Wilczek Grand Concert Company will be the attraction for Wednesday evening. The company consists of Mr. and Mrs. Franz Wilczek, violinists, Miss Kathryn A. Cowen, solo-soprano, Miss Eva Hawkes, contralto, Miss A. Gertrude Burley, vocalist and violinist. All possess marvelous musical ability, and wherever they have appeared the press and public have been unanimous in their praise. The Musical Courier in speaking of a charming musical programme given by Ella Russell and Franz Wilczek before the President and Mrs. McKinley at the White House last March, says: "At the close of the concert the President congratulated Wilczek in most flattering terms upon his highly artistic rendering of the violin solos, and presented him with his 'boutonniere' as a souvenir." The rare opportunity of appearing before so distinguished an assembly at the executive mansion is allotted to few, and Wilczek should feel quite complimented by it."

The evening entertainments will close on Thursday evening with a lecture by Rev. Robert Stewart MacArthur, D. D., LL. D., of New York. The Jacksonian, of Wooster, O., says: "What we believe to be the most popular lecture given in the University course in several years was delivered in the City Opera House last night by the Rev. Robert Stuart MacArthur, D. D., of New York, where he has twenty-eight years been pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, and as he said last evening expected to make it his home for life. The lecture, which is of a Scotch parentage, but a Canadian birth and an American all over, has an intensely dramatic manner on the platform and a tone that makes every word interesting, and while the lecture was made up largely of history, he was given the close attention during the almost two hours in which he talked."

The subject of Dr. McArthur's lecture will be "Russia, the Great Bear of the North." This lecture will be very instructive as well as entertaining. Dr. McArthur speaks from his personal experience and observations in Russia.

Full course tickets will be sold at $3.50; single admission, 50 cents. Reserved seats may be secured at Hyer & Howden's drug store on and after Monday, October 24th.

TIME OF SERVICE EXTENDED.

Company K Will Not Be Mustered Out Until November 7th.

Pursuant to a notice last week from Major Thompson, Fourth U. S. Cavalry, the Pennsylvania mustering-out officer, Captain Gambell and the other officers have been busy for several days preparing the rolls for Company K. There is a great deal of work in this. All changes of rank and grade, and authorized stoppages, the various cases of absence must be set forth. A record is also made of injuries, whether or not contracted in the performance of duty, cases of continement, when by the civil authority the nature of offense and whether tried or discharged without trial, and in fact everything else necessary to account fully for every individual, so as to insure justice from the United States.

Five copies of the roll will be made: one for the adjutant of the army, two for the paymaster by whom the troops are to be paid, one for the adjutant of the State, and the fifth will be retained by the company commander.

On Tuesday Captain Gambell received a telegram from Major Thompson that the Company's term of service had been extended to November 7th. The general order requires that the members must report daily at 9 o'clock for roll-call at the armory, and they must remain in quarters or barracks or at the armory house until the day of mustering out. There are 106 names on the Company roster and yesterday all but six, who were accounted for, answered at roll-call.

During the extension of service the government allows 50, instead of 25 cents per day, to each member for rations, and all those who live any distance out of town have secured board here for the next three weeks or more.

Captain Gambell has been notified that the Fifth regiment will go to Philadelphia next week to take part in the Peace Jubilee. Companies will be allowed to take 50 men each. Transportation will be furnished to and from Philadelphia, the expense of $1.50 being paid by the regiment fund. In the third regiment Company K is the only ..... in the service.

Death's Betrothal.

A few years ago a New York newspaper conducted an open discussion upon the topic: "Is Marriage a Failure?" The answer is easy and upon the surface. the Report of Interstate Commerce Commission.

Number of Employes 932,475—Passengers Carried Numbered 489,445,198 for the Year

From summaries which will appear in the tenth statistical report from the Interstate Commerce commission, prepared by Statistician Hitchcock, the following advance figures are obtained:

On June 30, 1897, there were 128 roads in the hands of receivers.

The total railway mileage of the United States was 184,425 miles, there being an increase of 1,651 miles, or 0.90 per cent. during the year.

Ninety-five per cent. of the railway mileage of the country is laid with steel rails. The total number of locomotives in service was 35,986, an increase of 36 for the year. The number of passenger cars was 33,626, and of freight cars, 1,221,760.

The number of employes on the railroads of the United States on June 30, 1897, as reported, was 932,475. These figures, assigned on the mileage basis, show that 449 men were employed for 100 miles of line. The corresponding figures for the year 1896 were slightly larger.

Regarding the year ending June 30, 1897, it appears that the amount of wages and salaries paid was $465,001,341. This amount [illegible] operating expenses of railways, or $2,540 per mile of line. The total compensation for 1896 was $3,222,950 greater.

The number of passengers carried during the year was 489,445,198, a decrease of 22,327,639. The number of tons of freight carried, was 741,706,946, which is 24,142,430 less than for 1896.

[illegible] on account of railway [illegible] on June 30, 1897, [illegible] 67 were killed and 2,567 were injured during the year.

From summaries showing the rate of casualties it appears that one out of every 450 employes was killed, and one out of every 30 employes was injured during the year. One passenger was killed for every 2,204,708 carried, and one injured for every 175,116 carried.

13 Murderers of Missionaries.

Herr Eugen S. Wolff, the well-known German explorer, who has just returned to Berlin from China, where he acted as the correspondent of the Tageblatt, is being prosecuted upon a charge of having, without authority, assumed the role of judge and with having liberated 13 Chinese murderers of German missionaries.

According to the evidence of Bishop Anzer, on which the prosecution is [illegible] Herr Wolff, having heard of the [illegible] appeared in court with a dog named Schuster. Four vacant chairs stood in the hall in which the trial was to be held. Wolff seated himself in the most imposing of these, saying:

"I'll take the highest, and you, Herr Schuster (addressing the dog) will take the second highest to my right."

Then he ordered the clerk of court [illegible] and lastly, with a gesture, bade the wondering mandarin to take the fourth and lowest chair.

The mandarin [illegible] politely, whereupon the latter drew a [illegible] of papers from his pocket and [illegible] perished it as his authority; and the prisoners being introduced and denying their innocence, Herr Wolff solemnly acquitted them and declared the proceedings ended. He then saddled his horse and departed.

INTERESTING RELIC FOUND.

Discovered in Wisconsin, Near Ruins of an Old French Fort.

Another interesting curiosity has been unearthed from the ruins of what is now regarded by historians as an old French fort, built by Nicholas Pierrot in 1685, and situated on land owned by John Brady, near the city limits of Trempealeau, Wis. It may have some bearing on definitely settling what expedition is the author of the ruins in question beyond the possibility of each. The relic is about the size of a modern American penny, but it is not flat, the front side of it being raised with the finely cut features of a man's head, and circled around [illegible] the letters "Armenicus Antoninvsaug." It may be the means of bringing out no interesting story of these ancient voyagers of the upper river.
